

“Mustered in in 1862 and stayed and served until Feb 1865”

“absent on furlough” when the unit surrendered

“At Tupelo Miss furloughed to go home by Mack Tally¹ Capt. and J.H. Griffin 1st Lieut. (The furlough has long since xxxx”

“Became infirm from wounds and other causes contracted during service in the war and have caused my complete infirmity for more than 10 years. Wounds consisting of ruptures caused by lifting heavy iron on gun boats.”

Indicated that he did not do work of any kind, that he was supported by his children, and that he had previously submitted an application under the Invalid category.

¹ When he mustered in, the unit commander was J.D. Evans, who was dropped from the roll for AWOL on Oct 29 1863. I do not know anything about the circumstances of his status and thus reserve judgement. Talley moved up from 1st Lieutenant to Captain, and Griffin from 2d Lieutenant to 1st Lieutenant.
